Y. M. C. A. ARRANGES SERIES OF SPECIAL LECTURES FOR NEXT TWO MONTHS

A Number of Addresses to be Made by Prominent Professional Men

The College Y. M. C. A. has arranged as a programme for the next two months a series of lectures to be given by several prominent men. It has been the aim of the organization, in selecting the speakers to choose men qualified to speak on the various phases of world activities, and to picture to their audience the way in which their vocation appeals to them. It is hoped that every student will avail himself of the opportunity of hearing these lectures every Tuesday night in the Y. M. C. A. hall.

The opening address will be given Nov. 5, by Dr. James S. Wilson, who will give an outline of the lectures in his introductory remarks. On Nov. 12, Mr. James W. Gordon, a member of the law firm of Smith, Moncure and Gordon, will address the Y. M. C. A. on the subject: "Law as a Profession."

November 19, the speaker of the occasion will be Mr. L. M. Williams, of the banking firm of Messrs. John S. Williams and Sons, whose subject will be "Business as a Profession."

Dr. W. P. Clark, the professor of classics, will speak Nov. 26, on: "Teaching as a Profession." The "Medical Profession" will be the subject of Dr. Wm. P. Mathew's address on Dec. 3.

On December 10, Mr. S. A. Ackley, the state secretary of the Y. M. C. A. will deliver an address on "Y. M. C. A. Work." The final address will be given Dec. 17, by Rev. J. Y. Fair, D. D., whose subject will be "The Ministry."

PHILOMATHEAN ELECTION

The election of the Philomathean Literary Society officers was held Saturday night and the following men chosen: President, P. Lewis Witchley; vice-president, W. W. Winsbro; recording secretary, F. F. Jenkins; treasurer, C. C. Cooper; literary critic, R. C. Warburton; corresponding secretary, G. C. Outland; chaplain, H. L. Womack; parliamentary critic, H. R. Hamilton; censor, E. T. James; executive committee, Messrs. Tucker and Hofheims.

The Spotswood Club will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday, November 7, in Prof. John Tyler's apartments.

WILLIAM AND MARY LOSES FIRST CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

TEAMS EVENLY MATCHED IN FIRST HALF. MANY PENALTIES INFLICTED

After holding the fast Randolph Macon team to a scoreless tie for the first half, William and Mary weakened and allowed the visitors to run up a total of 20 points while she had to bear the sting of a scoreless defeat.

Throughout the first half, the Ashlanders, failing to go through the line, resorted to end runs, but could not make appreciable gains and were forced to punt quite often. On the other hand the Orange and Black were not able to round the end and contented themselves by depending on Fullback Wright's line plunges to make the required distance which he did several times in such a way as to draw admiration from the large crowd that showed true William and Mary spirit from start to finish.

Penalties were inflicted often during the game, both teams suffering a total of one hundred and fifty yards through infringement on the rules. Several of William and Mary's long gains were disallowed and a negative fifteen yards given in their stead. However, it is only fair to Randolph-Macon to say that she suffered penalties when in striking distance of the coveted line.

The second half was clearly Randolph-Macon's for it was evident to all, who witnessed the game, that William and Mary had spent her best energy in the first period and that the apparent weakening would probably result disastrously for the Orange and Black. It was even more apparent after Captain Tilley retired from the game for the team went to pieces and Bane scored two touchdowns without having to fight for the yards as he did in the first half.

The Randolph-Macon backfield was weak in handling Wright's long punts, there being several fumbles. The William and Mary ends were on the job when punts were in order. Ferguson, on one occasion, waited for the Randolph-Macon man to catch the ball, but the Ashlander fumbled and "Fergie" dived on the ball as soon as it fell out of the half's arms.

"JACK" WRIGHT THE STAR.

The William and Mary's chance of scoring centers around Wright's line plunging, whose playing throughout the game, Saturday, was spectacular. Not only did the popular fullback buck the line for long gains, averaging 4.2 yards for the entire game, but also punted the ball for forty yards nearly every time. His punts were long, swirling piraling kicks, that rose high and went down the field for long distances. The defensive work of Wright was also of stellar order.

For Randolph-Macon, Bane, Hopkins, and Wray played a brilliant game, while for William and Mary, besides the above named star, E. Wright, Ferguson, Tilley and Wayne Metcalf played a game that deserves special mention.

MAURY HIGH SCHOOL AN EASY VICTIM FOR WILLIAM & MARY ACADEMY

Norfolk Boys are Outplayed by the Fast Academy Team. Crockett and Addison Star

The Maury High School football team went down in defeat at the hands of the William and Mary Academy team to the tune of 17 to 7. Crockett and Addison tore through the line and around the ends for long gains almost at will.

The Norfolk boys were lucky to score, for it was due to Land's failure to call for a punt at the proper time that permitted the High School boys to cross the Academy's counting line. "Connie" Macon, the fast right half back on the Maury High School team, distinguished himself by making a spectacular run of 45 yards around end.

During the entire game the Norfolk boys made the required distance only five times, while the Academy team, with the ball in its possession most of the time, made sixteen first downs, five of which were made in succession.

The playing of Macon for the Maury High School was of an exceptional order, while for the Academy team, Crockett, Corbell, Addison and Land starred.

In the first quarter, William and Mary after receiving the kick on her five yard line, carried the ball through the line to Maury's twelve yard line. A stone wall was thrown up and the ball went over. Woodhouse punted. Addison and Crockett again brought the ball within striking distance by line plunges. Corbell, after the team had suffered a 15-yard penalty, "stuck his toe" in the ball and sent it across the bar for three points.

After Macon had made his long run in the second quarter, and Land had used poor headwork in calling for a fake kick instead of a punt when the ball was on the Academy's five yard line, the Maury team forced the ball over the line for their only touchdown.

After this performance, the Academy tightened up and scored two touchdowns, making the first by five first downs in rapid succession, and the second in the final period by a similar method.

THE COLLEGE MAN'S DUTY

Duty is not always plain. In every department of human endeavor there are always those—sometimes few, but more often many—who fail to comprehend fully just what their true relation is to their immediate environment. Entirely too many people have the idea that the whole of their efforts should be confined to one particular channel, utterly disregarding the fact that the complex society in which they move entails various duties and responsibilities. And there are some who think—and vain thought it is—that fortune will smile upon them and crown with success their efforts as they waste valuable days in chasing some far-away will-o'-the-wisp.

Generally speaking duty is very broad and comprehensive, and is rendered, therefore, more or less obscure to all. Some one has well said that we owe our life's work to ourselves, to our fellow men, and to our God, which certainly includes every phase of human dutiful effort. And that this far-reaching conception of duty is the right one no thoughtful and considerate person will deny. Our efforts should be directed so as to give a full measure of service to personal, social and religious interests.

But man is naturally selfish—a fact which goes far toward explaining why so many fail to perform their full duty. Moving in a narrow, contracted sphere with limited vision, and ever prompted by the impulse to gather all things unto themselves, many persons labor only for their own personal interests and aggrandizement. But there are degrees of selfishness. Some are seemingly contented with far less than others. In fact, too many do not seem to have enough concern as to their personal acquirements, to say nothing of their regards for social and moral betterment. Very often, through sheer neglect and carelessness, persons fail miserably in the performance of their duty. And this is true of the college man as well as of others.

The duties of the student are many and varied. In college he is afforded every opportunity to perform his whole duty. Each man can, if he will be but thoughtful and energetic enough, do his full part toward himself, his fellows, and his God. Now, what are the college man's duties? Briefly, he should be a close and persevering student in his classes, for he owes it to himself and to his professors. He should enter into the various kinds of college activities, and work with whatever power he has; he should join the athletic association and take part in athletic sports, for he owes it to himself to take physical exercise, and to his fellows to help promote a good college spirit; he should enter actively into literary society work, for he owes it to himself to be able to speak in public; and last but by no means least he should be a Y. M. C. A. worker, because it is his duty to help promote morality and religion. These constitute anyway very nearly the whole of the college man's duty.

CLAIMS OF THE LITERARY SOCIETY

There is a very noticeable lack of the proper interest in literary society work here at William and Mary. While the prospects of the two societies for the present session are as bright as they usually are, yet the indications are that at the end of the year not more than one-half of the student-body, if that many, will have affiliated with them. This is indeed a condition that should not exist.

To say just what the reason is that so many men fail to participate in society work would be somewhat difficult. This much is certain however: the failure is not due to excessive society dues, for they do not exceed four dollars for the entire year; and it is not due to a lack of attractiveness of programmes, or to defects in the general quality of work done, for the societies maintain a high standard. But evidently there is a reason. It may be that in some cases the student's regular college work is so heavy that he hasn't time for this extra work. In fact we have heard such an excuse offered. Or the chief cause may be found in the failure of many students to appreciate properly the true value of literary society work. However, be the reason what it may, the literary society lays its claims upon every student—claims as strong as those of any other phase of College activities.

Some students, who are thus depriving themselves of the very beneficial training afforded by literary societies, seem to be comforted by the thought that in the present busy, practicable age their success is assured regardless of whether they possess the ability to come before an audience and give expression to their thoughts. But these students forget the fact that the present age requires far more of them in the field of public speaking than formerly, because of its business and practicability.

It matters not upon what vocation the college man may enter he invariably finds that he is in need of the ability to speak in a public capacity. If he enters the medical profession, or the teaching profession, to say nothing of the law and the ministry which make public speaking the chief work, the various associations and conferences of each require his presence and an expression of his views; if he becomes a merchant, or a banker, the meetings of these classes place the same requirements upon him; and if he becomes a tiller of the soil, it is necessary that he attend the farmers' institutes and expand his views on different subjects.

Briefly, the busy age is also one of organization, the object of which is the exchange of ideas; and he who goes forth into the world to do something must inevitably become, to a greater or less degree, an instrument in the effort to accomplish the purpose of the organization mentioned.

Then why not take advantage of the opportunities offered by the literary society? Behold the sad spectacle of the mature man who attempts to speak in public without any previous training or experience. He is a dismal failure and becomes the object of jest and ridicule! Let every student consider carefully the claims which the literary society has upon him.

West Virginia speaks for itself:

"On Tuesday evening, October 1, the Phil Hellenic Club met at the home of Dr. Bishop, on McLane avenue. Notwithstanding the fact that this was the first meeting of the semester there was a good attendance, and a good programme.

"After a number of readings, Dr.
Bishop gave, as a closing number,
a short talk on Greek education.
The subject is an intensely interesting one, and with Dr. Bishop's original humor, was most delightful.

"At the conclusion of the programme officers were elected with Dr. Bishop as president for the semester.

"Only those who have enjoyed the hospitality of Dr. and Mrs.
Bishop can realize the pleasure afforded by the social hour which followed the business session."

Many of the old students will remember that Dr. Bishop was for a number of years the popular professor of Greek and Modern Languages at William and Mary.

A meeting of the Northern Lights will be held in Room 5 Brafferton, Tuesday, Nov. 5, at 7:15 p. m.

The chapel choir, which was formularly for practice on Monday and Wednesday of each week at 4 o'clock.

Prof. Crawford is giving the mem-

There will be a special train chartered to take the William and Mary that as many students as possible will go and help the team defeat our old rival for the sixth time.

INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATE COUNCIL NAMED

At a joint meeting of the Phoenix and Philomathean literary societies held recently, steps were taken to perpetuate the triangular debating league which was formed last year with Richmond College, Randolph-Macon and William and Mary as parties to the contract. A communication from Randolph-Macon states that they are eager to continue the debate. A debate council was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for William and Mary. This council consists of Messrs. P. L. Witchley, D. M. Griggs, J. L. Tucker, W. M. Grimsley and K. A. Agee.
